

Alberta Municipalities On a Sound Basis

TORONTO, July 7.—Satisfactory adjustments have been made recently between representatives of bondholders and half a dozen Alberta municipalities, in a manner to improve the reputation of that province in eastern financial circles.

A party, composed of E. G. Long, J. A. Fraser and John Appleton, have just returned from visiting the municipalities concerned, and the report is that through economies of administration, plans for the increasing of revenue from utilities, and by a higher assessment and taxation from the public, the position of the towns will be greatly improved.

The visitors discussed matters intimately and in detail with the representatives of the municipalities, and in a round-table conference a scheme was usually evolved. Bondholders may have to be patient in some cases but the will to improve matters seemed evident.

Atbasca seems least likely to bring any result in the near future, but that town suffered severely from a movement of its population. Blairmore, on the other hand, was an instance of new methods of retrenchment and increased revenues which, when worked out, should put the town on a good basis in two or three years. Taber also expects a big improvement shortly, when irrigation plans are worked out.—Calgary Herald.

Southern Sask. and Irrigation

How to overcome the consequence of drouth is not Southern Alberta's problem alone. Western and South-western portions of Saskatchewan are in the throes of the same difficulty. How to meet and solve the problem has occasioned a big better farming conference now in session at Swift Current.

The conference now in progress has been the outcome of crop failures for three successive years, which, as the Regina Leader puts it, has meant an enormous loss to the people in the districts that have suffered, not merely to the farmers themselves, but to all business and professional men. It has resulted in financial embarrassment for many municipalities and school districts; has forced the necessity of extensive relief measures by the government; has resulted in loss of population; has undermined the health of people through lack of proper nourishment; has occasioned the death of countless numbers of livestock; and generally has caused heavy individual, provincial, and national loss.

The picture drawn by the Regina paper is a doleful one, and not an exaggerated one as we with drouth experiences here can well imagine, and that energetic action is taken to combat the conditions is not in the circumstances in the least surprising.

The problem in the drouth affected parts of Saskatchewan has become so serious that it has come to be realized that different methods of farming are necessary there. To bring this about the Department of Agriculture of that province is taking energetic steps. Whatever methods are used will mean the expenditure of a large sum of money, but, as the Regina paper wisely observes, the expense will be small in comparison to the losses now being sustained and the extensive relief measures which have been necessary in recent years. All Saskatchewan, it states, will cordially support Hon. Mr. Hamilton and the Martin government in whatever steps and expenditures may be necessary to rehabilitate and establish on a permanently prosperous basis the agricultural industry in any section of the province calling for special efforts on their part.

The Regina Leader sounds a chord in tune to the feeling of the people of Southern Alberta, when it affirms that whatever steps and expenditures are regarded necessary to place any section of the province on a permanently prosperous basis, as concerns governmental action in regard to the same, will be cordially supported by the province as a whole. This is the right spirit and the only spirit in which it can be expected that such action will be received.

The parlous situation in western and southwestern Saskatchewan coupled with the area in Southern Alberta which is suffering from the recent soil drifting, caused by the high winds, makes what is considered an area small as compared to the whole in each province an area which is magnified in the far-reaching effects of drouth. With each province alive to its responsibilities in each particular portion, there will be inaugurated a policy which will undoubtedly be one of the greatest good to the greatest number.—Lethbridge Herald.

Four Dominion Bye Elections Probable

OTTAWA, July 8.—Hundreds of telegrams are pouring in today on Hon. Arthur Meighen. One of the earliest came from Mayor Brandon of St. Marys, Ont., where Mr. Meighen was born. It sent the hearty congratulations of "the old home town."

Another message carried its congratulations to Mr. Meighen's parents. It is expected that when Mr. Meighen formally assumes the office of prime minister on Saturday, he will have his cabinet slate practically complete. Last night's announcement that he has the "undivided support" of the remaining members of the Borden administration should make his work of cabinet making fairly easy although there still remains the question of provincial representation.

The previous resignation of Messrs. Carvell and A. K. MacLean, and now that of Sir Robert Borden, have left the maritime provinces without cabinet representation. Representation for both Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is on the cards with the names of F. B. McCurdy, formerly parliamentary secretary of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment, from Nova Scotia, and Rupert Wignmore, member for St. John City, from New Brunswick, mentioned as the most likely appointees. R. F. Green, member for Kootenay and H. H. Stevens, for Vancouver Centre, are most prominently mentioned to succeed Hon. Martin Burrell in the representation from British Columbia.

The appointment would entail a by-election in each case.

Writs have also been issued shortly for a by-election in East Elgin, Ont. This vacancy was created by the death of David Marshall, who had represented that constituency for ten years. Altogether then, four by-elections are probable.

To Merge Departments

With the formation of a new administration, it is likely that there will be a merging of some departments with the consequent reduction in the number of portfolios. Interior and immigration will probably be merged, with Hon. J. A. Calder presiding over them; public works and railways and canals are likely to be amalgamated. Hon. J. O. Reid, minister of railways, has, in fact, been administering both departments for some time past. It is likely that he will continue although the rumor is current that his retirement to the senate is not far distant. The work of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment, presided over by Sir James Loughheed, is practically completed. What remains will probably be handed over to the militia department. At the present time, also, Hon. Hugh Guthrie holds two portfolios—those of solicitor-general and of militia and defence. It is hardly likely that this arrangement will continue.

Reduction of portfolios was planned by Sir Robert Borden some months ago, but the break-down in his health interfered with the carrying out of the plans.

Premier has not Paid Income Tax

OTTAWA, July 9.—The new premier of Canada may be among the civil servants to be sued by the city for non-payment of income tax.

Hon. Arthur Meighen is among those who have been reported to the board of control by the city collector for non-payment of income tax due in June. The others include several cabinet ministers and prominent government officials. The city collector has been instructed to take legal action to enforce payments.

The refusal to pay the income tax is not due to any financial inability but to a difference of opinion as to whether civil servants are legally liable to civic income taxes this year.

The names and the amounts claimed for taxes are: Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine, $145.75; A. C. Boyce, commissioner, $200.75; Dr. J. G. Rutherford, $173.25; Hon. W. B. Nantel, $204.75; Major-General W. D. Otter, $200.75; Senator G. D. Robertson, $167.75; Major-General J. Biggar, $148.42; C. Halloran, $118.25; Hon. Arthur Meighen, $145.75; Hon. P. R. Blondin, $172.75; Sir Joseph Pope, $129.94; Hon. C. J. Doherty, $172.75; E. L. Newcombe, deputy minister of justice, $228.25; J. Hunter, $141.25; F. A. Anglin, supreme court justice, $237.25; L. P. Duff, supreme court justice, $200.00; Hon. Martin Burrell, $145.75; J. De La Tache, $107.25, and many others.

New Commerce Board Decides Policies

OTTAWA, July 7.—(Canadian Press)—The new commissioners of the Board of Commerce held their first meeting yesterday to discuss future operations. It was decided, in view of the questions raised as to their jurisdiction to function under part II of the Combines and Fair Prices Act, 1919, which deals particularly with hoarding and taking unfair profits on the sale of necessities of life, not to institute, on their motion, any new investigations with respect to these matters but to continue the inquiries already under way. This course was adopted so that valuable time may not be lost between now and the determination of jurisdiction by the privy council, in preparation for public hearings.

The above statement, it is emphasized, is not to be understood to mean that if complaints of profiteering in necessities of life be at any time received by the board from any part of Canada, they will not be investigated. The Board of Commerce will take the usual steps to deal with these complaints, as the board takes the stand, notwithstanding the recent submission of its stated case to the supreme court of Canada now in appeal to the privy council, that it has jurisdiction to operate under the profit control sections of the Combines and Fair Prices Act, 1919, and it will deal with persons found guilty of such infractions of the act.

The Board of Commerce, the commissioners state, has unquestioned jurisdiction concerning the investigation and restraint of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers which constitute part I of the Combines and Fair Prices Act, 1919, and it proposed to proceed with the hearing and determination of certain alleged combines cases, trial of which had to be postponed in April owing to the disorganization of the late board.

The first statement issued by the newly-constituted board, containing the above information is signed by W. W. White, chief commissioner; F. A. Ackland and G. A. Dillon, commissioners.—Calgary Herald.

"Pal'O Mine"

COMING TO MACLEOD NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

What is sure to be an inspiration to native playwrights, to intelligent managers, and to the battle-scarred theatre-goers generally is the success which is being won by William P. Springer's comedy with music—PAL O' MINE—which will bring its songs of mirth, music, comedy and satire to the Empress theatre next Monday night.

It is doubtful if there is any show on the road today which contains as much comedy—clean, refined comedy—music songs, and laughter, as that of "Pal O' Mine."

The critics are almost a unit in declaring it a play on the very edge, if not actually over the very line, of genuine greatness. That in itself is remarkable, because, after all, critics being only human beings, are subject to personal prejudices. That it appealed so strongly to them is in itself an indication that on less calculated individuals the sheer reality of the story, its beauty of its treatment and its true dramatic worth will make "Pal O' Mine" a greater and more lasting impression.

Miss Sarah Gibney, the well-known young actress who won fame as "Peg in 'Peg O' My Heart'" will be seen in the leading role, and is supported by an excellent cast of clever actors, actresses and singers, including Grace Witcher, Albert Thomson, Al. New, and others as well-known.

Pal O' Mine will be seen one night only, next Monday night, at the Empress Theatre.

A packed house is expected and reservations are now being made.

SHOE MANUFACTURERS ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN TEMPORARILY POSTPONED

The Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada have found it necessary to postpone their advertising campaign on behalf of Made in Canada footwear for a month or so, due to the fact that their advertising literature has met with delay in printing, which delay, in turn, is due to the paper shortage under which Canada and the world at large is suffering. Details of this advertising are nearing completion, however, and advertising will appear in this paper shortly.

United Farmers to Meet in Winnipeg

A gathering which may prove a landmark in the political history of Canada will be held in Winnipeg on Monday next, July 12, when a special political committee representative of the farmers' organizations of Canada, from the maritime provinces to the Pacific coast, and containing all the farmer members of the cross benches in the house of commons, will meet to consider the situation which has been created by recent changes at Ottawa. There will be two delegates representing each of the farmers' provincial organizations. H. W. Wood, president of the U.F.A., and Herbert Greenfield, of Westlock, a well known member of the U.F.A. executive, will represent the farmers' political movement of Alberta. Whether any members of the cross benches at Ottawa who are not farmer representatives will be present it is not possible to state, but at least all the farmer members of the cross bench group will attend. Following the meeting of the political committee, which has been called into session by the Canadian council of agriculture, the council itself will hold important meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 13 and 14.

Fully Organized

"The United Farmers of Alberta are organized and ready for an election, and though I doubt whether an appeal to the country will be made at an early date, there would be no special excitement among the farmers if it came tomorrow," said Herbert Greenfield, of the U.F.A. executive, in conversation with The Alberta yesterday. "Medicine Hat, Bow River, Battle River and Victoria districts are particularly well prepared, and in the province as a whole organization is thorough, and the encouraging thing is that the farmers in the various districts from the locals up take the initiative and organize themselves without finding it necessary to call upon the central executive to help. They are thus developing their strength with complete autonomy in each district, relying upon themselves, and they are picking out their best men."

Mr. Greenfield described the Camrose convention as one of the best he had ever attended. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed, and when the question of finances was raised the delegates subscribed $500 in half an hour. Mr. Greenfield believes that much of the money for financing the political campaign, whenever the election may occur, will be raised by the farmers' public subscription at their own conventions and meetings.

The recent political developments at Ottawa were apparently the decisive factor at Camrose in the decision to nominate a candidate, and the names of highly qualified and competent men were before the convention. Mr. Lucas, who was the final choice, has excellent qualifications, Mr. Greenfield said.—Morning Albertan.

No Word Yet of Big Ditch

Premier Stewart has had no intimation of further action by the Dominion government with respect to financial aid for the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District, in answer to the letter he wrote Hon. Mr. Meighen two weeks ago or more, offering to reopen the matter of arrangement of financial assistance for the irrigation project.

The premier told the Albertan last evening over the phone that he expected to get a letter within a day or two, but that nothing had arrived yet.

G. R. Marnoch told the Albertan over the phone on Thursday that he had received word from W. A. Buchanan, M.P., at Ottawa, before he had left there at the close of the session, that Premier Stewart's letter might remain unanswered until such time as the political mudslide resultant from the resignation of Premier Borden and the reorganization of the cabinet had been straightened out.

George Hoadley, M.L.A., while in the city on Thursday, discussing the Lethbridge Northern project, said he thought the provincial government should advance sufficient money to have the work started this fall, that money to be first charge on the result of the sale of the bonds when they were sold.—Morning Albertan.

Railways Want Increase in Freight Rates

MONTREAL, July 10 (by Canadian Press)—The Canadian Railway Association, representing all the lines in the Dominion, announced this morning that an application will be made to the Railway Commission at Ottawa for a 30 per cent. increase in freight rates.

The application for the increase was filed this morning with the Railway Commission at Ottawa.

The Railway Association, in the course of its announcement, states that the application is based entirely upon present costs of railway operation, including cost of labor and cost of material. The increases in these costs to date, according to the application, exceeds by enormous sums the increased revenue obtained from the advance in rates granted in August, 1918.

At that time wage increases were promised and given to the railway employees based on the increases given, or to be given, in the United States under the so-called McAdoo award, although these increases were accompanied by rate changes calculated to offset the added wage expense, the effect of the new rates was to add only $43,000,000 to the gross revenue of the railways, as against $80,000,000 additional wage costs, thus creating a discrepancy of $37,000,000 for the first year following the introduction of the new rates of wages and tolls. This discrepancy, instead of shrinking is daily growing greater, say the railway officials. Prices of coal, of rails, of engines, and other principal needs of the roads, have risen, they allege, by more than one hundred per cent. since the beginning of the war period.—Calgary Herald.

Big Rain and Irrigation

While we are all delighted with the heavy rains that have fallen over this section of the country during the past few days, we sincerely hope that it will not have the effect of causing any slackening in the efforts to push the various irrigation projects in Southern Alberta. We do not think it will. The experiences of the past two years has been such as to convince most men that their only safety lies in the guarantee of a plentiful supply of water which only irrigation can assure, but at the same time there is a danger that some one or two men may, because the prospects look a little brighter, slacken up in their interests and thereby endanger the whole scheme. What is needed now and never more than now, is for every farmer to pull together until irrigation is an accomplished fact.

New Dominion Cabinet

According to latest dispatches from Ottawa the new Dominion Cabinet up to the present is as follows:

Hon. Arthur Meighen, prime minister and secretary of state for external affairs.

Hon. J. A. Calder, president of the council and minister of immigration and colonization.

Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce.

Sir James Loughheed, minister of the interior and superintendent-general of Indian affairs.

Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia.

Hon. A. L. Sifton, secretary of state.

Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of railways and canals.

Senator Robertson, minister of labor.

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries and minister of naval service.

F. C. McCurdy, minister of public works.

Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice.

Sir Edward Kemp, minister without portfolio.

Senator Blondin, postmaster-general.

Dr. F. F. Tolmie, minister of agriculture.

Hon. R. W. Wignmore, minister of customs and inland revenue.

It is understood additions to the cabinet are still under consideration and may be made shortly.

Cox Will Appeal to Electors on Nations League

DAYTON, O., July 10.—Governor James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for the United States presidency, is in favor of ratification of the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations, with two reservations, according to his campaign managers, and they will form the keynote appeal to the people of the United States in his forthcoming campaign.

These proposed reservations of the league would provide as follows:

1.—That the United States signs with the agreement an understanding that all the signatories are bound together for only one reason—to keep the peace of the world.

2.—That without any suggestions that the United States sought to shirk its obligations, the league participants should clearly understand that the war-making power is vested in congress and that the United States could not act except in harmony with the constitutions in complying with any league decision.

In speaking of the league issue his campaign managers pointed out that in a recent speech Governor Cox declared that the league was imperative and that it was his intention to fight for it "to keep faith with the boys who went overseas."

His advisors say that there has been no change in his views.

Their interpretation of the governor's position was that he would insist in his campaign upon such a ratification of treaty and league as would not trespass on the principles of the document and he would fight for article 10 without weakening reservations.

Would Limit Armaments

Herbert Hoover recalls to the world it has forgotten all about limitation of armaments. He urges this fundamental condition of ending future wars be taken up at once. It must be. If it isn't, new wars will continue in the making.

There are four powers which now control the world from a military standpoint. They are the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan. The United States is building new warships at a rapid rate and is being urged by jingo agitators to challenge all comers at naval construction. Great Britain has ceased laying down new war vessels, but remains mistress of the seas. France continues conscription in her army, and militarist parties control her international policies. Japan still separates her army and navy from her system of parliamentary government and keeps them in autocratic readiness for any opening.

These four nations can adopt a policy of limitation of armaments and compel the other countries to follow their example. Before the war, Germany alone stood in the way of an international agreement limiting the growth of the world's armies and navies. Germany is now disarmed and can be forced to continue in that condition without difficulty.

If the four governments approach the matter with sincerity, armament competition can be brought to an end. Here is an international policy which means decreased taxation; and that means more money in everybody's pockets except the armament makers.

It is for the United States to invite the others to a conference, or else to join the league of nations and force the issue there.—Morning Albertan.

Amazing Operation Without Anaesthetic

CHICAGO, July 10.—Dr. Orlando P. Scott, one of Chicago's best known surgeons, yesterday performed one of the most amazing operations in surgical annals by slicing 12 inches of flesh from his own leg and transplanting it to that of his wife to save her from disfigurement. He performed the operation with a razor.

Throughout the operation, which lasted an hour, Dr. Scott talked with interns and students and explained each step as it was taken and what steps were to follow. He took no anaesthetic, not even a local one, and despite the intense pain, showed no outward sign of his suffering.

Dr. Scott served overseas in the United States medical service. His wife was injured six weeks ago in an automobile accident.

Wonders Wrought by Irrigation

(By T. Clarke)

A quarter of a mile away is a high hill; the southern slope is covered with orchards of apple, peach, pear and cherry trees, and many fields of alfalfa. Appearing above the waving branches of the trees are to be seen the roof-trees of many fine residences.
Once, not many years ago, perhaps ten at the outside, this same hillside was the most barren, God forsaken spot imaginable, sparsely covered with greasewood and twisted sage brush.
There was a thin growth of grass for about one month each spring and then vegetation died for that season, as the rainfall is practically nil during the summer months. The only thing that seemed to thrive in that intense heat was the deadly rattlesnake, which delighted to bask in the sun among the rocks of lava formation which thickly covered this and every other hillside in the country.

Then came the railway, and with it many people from the outside world seeking homes for themselves in the country now being opened up by the builders of the great transcontinental line. The railway entered the Yakima Valley through a pass, worn by the action of a swiftly flowing stream in ages long past.

The valley, which is 40 miles long and 8 miles wide, contains thousands of acres of rich land overgrown with greasewood and sage, but as dry as a bone. The mountains sent streams of water as clear as crystal down the valley, and it was seen that irrigation, if properly conducted, would work wonders in this arid region, and so capital was interested and work started. Much treasure was expended before the work was completed and the lands turned over to settlement, but when the life-giving water was turned onto the land the transformation was immediate and complete.
While the main ditches, which are all of cement, were being constructed, the new comers were busy clearing the land, levelling and filling the low places, so that by the time the ditches were finished all that remained to be done was the construction of the laterals leading through the various holdings, most of which are from 5 to 10 acres in extent. The land at this time sold from $50 to $150 per acre, it now sells from $300 to $1200 per acre. The first crops grown were alfalfa and roots, and the growth was phenomenal; then fruit trees were put out and the work of fruit farming was commenced in earnest. Today the railways are kept on the jump handling the fruit raised here, which is sent to all parts of the world, giving employment to many thousands of pickers, from the time the early fruit is picked to late in the fall, when the trees are denuded of their red cheeks and luscious apples of the winter keeping variety. There are also walnuts, grapes, and hops raised in large quantities, besides wheat, rye, corn and vegetables.

This morning I stood on this hill and looked over the valley which formerly had been so barren, and the sight of what I saw revealed the wonders of irrigation. As far as the eye could reach there lay before us vigorous orchards, in full bearing, and the silvery gleam of water in the irrigation flumes and ditches showed how an otherwise desert region had been transformed to a veritable garden.

The main ditches climb seeming impossible heights and carry a great head of water. Water prices vary, the lowest being about $10 per acre, and the highest, under a recent reclamation project being $92. This seems a big price to pay, but people pay it willingly enough.
The trees and fruits are subject to insect pests which invade the orchards, so spraying operations are in progress from early in the spring until the fruit is well set on the trees.
The growers take no chances where insects are concerned. What has been accomplished here in the matter of irrigation in the face of so many difficulties, can be done in our own province of Alberta and at considerably lower cost than here. In Alberta we have an inexhaustible supply of water which is at a high alti-

Brunswick's hay crop this year will be one-third less than in 1919, according to the official crop report given out by the provincial department of agriculture this morning.
As high as $18 per ton for standing hay is said to have been paid, while lump sums being paid for fields are, in some cases, twice that which was received last year.
Official crop reports also indicated that the yield in the principal potato growing counties will be "greatly lessened" from various counties, although the reports vary in the different localities and are favorable from the northern and eastern counties.

The eastern section of the province is said to have suffered considerably from the operation of the cutworm on all garden crops, while local gardeners also have been finding them very plentiful this year.

"Pal O' Mine" Coming to Empress

NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

It is difficult to write restrainedly of a play like "Pal O' Mine." There is no doubt that it is an uncommonly fine one, and that in the person of its author, William P. Springer, a man has come to the bald theatricalism of the American Comedy, who has a real idea of life, who is able to infuse that tude, so that every foot of our prairie land could be reached. When that time comes it will open your eyes.

The prairie farmers are doing some thinking, and are becoming convinced that in order to become successful farmers we must become independent of the rainfall.

idea into living characters in words, music and song, and who has the courage to admit that in the climaxes of human experiences two plus two equal four.

"Pal O' Mine" is a story of New York in which the figures walk, talk, sing and breathe like two legged people. The technique, which comes only with constant writing for the stage, coupled with the fact that he has taken plain men and women to deal with, makes the value of Mr.
Springer's comedy. A gift of insight into the depths of the soul of men and the power to set forth what he sees there, which he unquestion-ably has, is what has made "Pal O' Mine" such a wonderful success.

Miss Sarah Gibney, the popular young actress who won fame in the leading roles of "Peg O' My Heart" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" will be seen in the title role of "Pal O' Mine" and is supported by an excellent cast, including Grace Witchee, Albert Thompson, Al. New, and others as well known.

Aged Man Wins in Bull Fight

FERNIE, July 11.—A narrow escape from a horrible death was the experience of Mr. Alce Emery, of Crow's Nest, last Friday when he was attacked by a ferocious three-year-old bull which had pulled its picket pin and was wandering about in the proximity of a small child, the granddaughter of Mr. Emery.

Leading the bull by the rope to the corral, and carrying a stout club in his hand, Mr. Emery succeeded in getting the bull inside the bars of the corral, and had dropped the club in order to put up the bars, when the bull made a lunge for him.

The bull got Mr. Emery down three times and trampled him, inflicting several injuries. Two broken ribs and a badly crushed foot are the worst of his hurts, but it was a miracle that the man escaped with his life. Finally he got a good hold of the bull's nose and one horn and gave the animal such a wrench of his neck that he ceased his onslaught long enough to permit of Mr. Emery getting out of the corral.

Mr. Emery was brought to Fernie the same evening and is being attended by Dr. Assestine, who reports that though his injuries are painful, he will recover rapidly. Mr. Emery is 71 years of age but of a most vigorous constitution and physical build, else there might have been a different story to tell of the result of the fight.—Lethbridge Herald.

"Drys" Win in New Brunswick

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 11.—With a majority of 21,000 for the retention of the provincial prohibition act and a majority of 15,000 against the sale of light wines and beer, the province of New Brunswick gave emphatic expression on Saturday to its position regarding the great question of prohibition, at the plebiscite held throughout the province.

The cities and larger towns, which may be termed the industrial centres and for which beer had been strongly argued, polled large majorities against beer and wines as well as being solidly for retention of the prohibitory laws. The four counties, Restigouche, Madawaska, Gloucester and Kent, which had been practically conceded to the "wets," upset all the dope and with the exception of Madawaska returned huge majorities for prohibition and against wines and beer. Restigouche did, however, give a slight majority for beer and wine. The women of New Brunswick were most active in the campaign and at the polls.

AN ALLEGED JOKE

This is a close corporation joke and is published by request. A party of Isaac Walton's devotees were fishing last Sunday and on their return met a lone fisherman who related to them his success in catching a five-pound pike as against their failure to land anything. The lone fisherman avers his yarn is not a "fish story" although it is now in a newspaper. It may require some detective work to unearth the joke which the lone fisherman swears is camouflaged by the above. Should the Times run it to earth the public will be let in on it later.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

WINNIPEG, July 10.—The Winnipeg Telegram says:

"Forty-five million dollars is to be distributed throughout Western Canada immediately as payment on the participation certificates of the Canadian Wheat Board making an advance of $15,000,000 over the amount of the initial payment intimated at a recent meeting of the board.

"Following a private meeting of the board in Winnipeg which terminated yesterday afternoon, it was learned unofficially that arrangements were being made for the payment of 30 cents a bushel on the certificates, which will mean the distribution of $45,000,000.

"A short time ago the board announced that the certificates would be redeemed at not less than 40 cents a bushel and that the first payment would be 50 per cent. It could not be ascertained today whether a definite price had been fixed or if the redemption value of the certificates would be much in excess of the amount originally announced, namely, 40 cents a bushel."

TORONTO, July 12.—Property destroyed by fire in Canada during June last totalled $1,434,319, a decrease of $1,913,211 compared with the loss in June, 1919, and the smallest month's loss since last October, 1919, when the total was $1,023,288, according to the Monetary Times' estimate.

LONDON, July 6.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—At the Lambeth conference of bishops which opened yesterday, 242 attended the proceedings. It was announced privately that the first debate was upon Christianity and especially the League of Nations, while the debate tomorrow will concern spiritualism and Christian Science theosophy, the bishop of Ottawa participating. Today the discussion will be on re-union.

The fact that the conference is being held in private arouses some criticism in press, the principal objectors, rather curiously, being the Daily Mail and the Daily Express, which usually are inclined to take more interest in affairs of the moment than of the next world.

The Express says that the conference has been discreetly boomed for weeks and now the journalists have discovered that it is sitting behind closed doors. They are told that a public conference would limit freedom of discussion daily.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Suspension of work in many steel plants, throwing thousands of workmen out of employment, is threatened because of car shortage, the Inter-State Commerce Commission was told today by J. F. Townsend, representing more than a score of steel manufacturers in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Lady is Nominated

AMHERST, N.S., July 10.—At the Conservative convention held here yesterday, Mrs. H. W. Rogers, of Amherst, widely known Canadian author and governor of Acadia University; E. C. Leslie, of River Herbert, and Percy I. Spicer, of Peterboro, were nominated to contest the constituency in the approaching provincial elections.

Farmer-Labor Fusion

AMHERST, N.S., July 10.—At the farmer convention a farmer-labor fusion was brought about, the labor party dropping two of its candidates and agreeing to accept two farmers to complete the ticket. The two representatives of the farmers nominated were D. G. McKenzie, of Malagash, and Warden Allen, of Pugwash. The representative of labor on the ticket is Archie Norris, of Springhill.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Delegates summoned to Chicago by the committee of 48 and representatives of the single tax movement, got together today in the preliminaries of an attempt to nominate a fusion third party presidential candidate to run on a platform satisfactory to both elements. WASHINGTON, July 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Daniel T. O'Connell of Boston, director of the National Bureau of the Friends of Irish Freedom, in a statement issued here yesterday criticizes the activity of "president" De Valera of the so-called Irish republic and that of Frank P. Walsh, as well, at the two United States national conventions.

GENOA, July 11.—Delegates to the International Seamen's Congress are threatening a strike and boycott against countries whose votes defeated the convention establishing a forty-eight hour week. They propose organizing a vast campaign at the international seamen's meeting which will convene at Amsterdam on August 5th, in order to compel British shipowners, who form the bulk of the opposition, to capitulate.

SYDNEY, N.S., July 12.—Two men are dead and a third is seriously injured, while property damage estimated at many thousands of dollars was caused as a result of the explosion of an ammonia tank on the premises of the Harris Abattoir Company in this city on Saturday.

The dead are:

REASON SETTLERS FROM U. S. ARE NOT COMING TO CANADA

"While the number of new settlers coming to Canada from the United States has not been so large as anticipated, owing mainly to the drastic curtailment of credit by the banks, a very considerable movement is expected in the fall," said M. E. Thornton, superintendent of United States agencies of the C. P. R. department of colonization, in conversation with The Albertan Tuesday. "The movement will occur when the farmers have completed harvesting." Mr. Thornton has recently returned from a visit to the western States, where he says tightness of money is being felt for the first time for many years, and the action of the banks in forcing merchants to clear their shelves at reduced prices. This condition is also leading to a curtailment of production by the factories in the east, the merchants having cut down their orders for new goods. While the people are very prosperous, and there has recently been an era of great extravagance, they are being compelled to practice economy owing to tighter money.

"The presidential campaign is a factor in money, curtailing business development." Mr. Thornton states that the crop prospects in Montana, which suffered from drought last year, and from the most severe losses of cattle during the winter months, are now very good, and that state will retrieve many of its losses this season. The value of the feed purchased last winter was greater than that of the stock which survived the winter.

Land prices in western Canada, states Mr. Thornton, are abnormally low as compared with similar lands in the United States.

American fruit growers, says Mr. Thornton, will have the greatest difficulty in marketing their crop this year owing to the serious car shortage. A system of "rationing" of car space is being adopted, the railways undertaking to transport a certain proportion. Morning Albertan.

BOY'S CAMP

Albert Swinart, James Lambert, William Baird, Douglas Russell, George Scheer, John Rothney, Bert Long, Fred Clark and Orville Kirk are in Boy's Camp across the river, under the Trail Rangers' program. Rev. W. E. Galloway is instructor and the boys report a good time. The camp is likely to increase before the end of the week.

REGINA, Sask., July 12.—Probably a million bushels of grain have been saved by the destroying of 2,000,000 gophers this spring by the school children of this province. In order to stimulate destruction of the animals, the provincial government offered prizes of Shetland ponies, sheep and pure-bred pigs to the school children with the biggest "kill." The first prize went to Elmer Oliver, of Colgate, who destroyed 11,171 animals.

CHANGE IN CLOSING DATE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN'S CONTEST

A contest for school children was announced in these columns recently by the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada. The subject was "Why you should buy Canadian Made Shoes." The closing date of the competition was given as June 30th, but it has now been extended to September 30th. This extension of time will give the boys and girls now working on their papers more time to collect information on the subject and make their essays more interesting. The Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada are giving children of sixteen years and under, 100 prizes of $2.00 each, and papers on the subject, "Why you should buy Canadian Made Shoes," which should not be more than 500 words in length should be sent to "Editor School Children's Contest, 1007 Lumsden Building, Toronto."

IS NOT AN ELECTION PAST DUE

The king is dead! Long live the king! Premier Borden has resigned and Premier Meighen has taken over the reins of office.

In commenting upon the selection of the Hon. Arthur Meighen as the successor to Sir Robert Borden all sections of the Canadian press pay tribute to the personal character of the new premier, and the western newspapers are particularly gratified by the fact that for the first time in the history of the Dominion the premier is a western man, but it is nevertheless a fact the cabinet over which the Hon. Arthur Meighen is called to preside is far from being that which constituted the first Union cabinet presided over by Sir Robert Borden.

That cabinet was a Coalition or Union cabinet composed of men drawn from both the old Liberal and Conservative parties called together to carry on the war, and whilst it made many mistakes and blunders, the country nevertheless gave it its hearty support, because it felt that under the circumstances there was no other way of handling a very difficult and serious situation in the history of the country. But now the war is over, and those conditions have passed away, and the work of the old Coalition Government is done, and therefore in all common honesty it ought to resign and seek a fresh mandate from the people. Instead of doing this it still hangs on to office, even though it refuses to acknowledge its old name—for it is only the other day that there was an event took place in Ottawa which was the birth of a new party and the christening took place at the same time and place; that is, the National Liberal and Conservative Party came into being, and received the blessing of Sir Robert Borden. Thus the Hon. Arthur Meighen becomes the leader of an entirely new party with an entirely new platform which has not yet been submitted to the electors of the country, and which in consequence does not reflect the feeling of the people.

Furthermore, it is manifest in all sections of the Dominion that the people are absolutely dissatisfied with the present administration, whether that dissatisfaction is justified or not is beside the question. The fact remains that the people are tired of the present government and want a change, and the only honorable thing for the new premier to do is to dissolve parliament and appeal to the country; and give the electors an opportunity of expressing either their approval or disapproval of the new party and new platform.

Old Political Parties Dying

We are living in a time of many and great changes in all departments of our national and social life, and especially is this manifested in the great political changes that have taken place in the country during the past year. The old party lines have been broken down and the people have refused to rally to the old parties, and they have grown tired of the old political machine, and here, there, and everywhere they have become divided into groups representing different and varied interests, but all seeking some form of government that will more closely represent the real interests of the people. In Ontario the old parties received such a blow that seemed hardly possible in that staid old conservative (not in the political sense) province and the farmers party came into power presided over by a farmer, Mr. Drury. The significance of the new order of things in Ontario lies in the fact that most of the members of the Drury Government were new to the job. They had never been in the cabinet before, in fact most of them had never been in the house before, and consequently they had had no experience in governing whatever. And everybody stood around to see what was going to happen. The old time politicians said "They can't carry on! They will soon be done," or they said "The cabinet will soon split and it won't be long before you see the old party divisions cropping up again." Others who were in sympathy with them stood watching anxiously to see if Mr. Drury and his cabinet were going to make good. What has been the result? The Farmers' Government has just completed its first session, and the testimony on every hand is that it has made good and this testimony comes from both old time Liberals and old time Conservatives, and it is the general conviction among all classes of people in Ontario that those men whom they sent down to Toronto went down there determined at any rate to try and give the people of Ontario good business-like government.

In the province of Manitoba a somewhat different situation is before us. The Norris Government when it went to the electors had behind it a fairly good record. While it was avowedly a Liberal government yet it may truthfully be said that it was to a very large extent a farmers government, and so far as can be gathered from the newspapers the people of the province were very well satisfied, and yet see what happened.

The electors divided themselves up into sections and groups so that no one group commands a majority in the house. It is true that the Liberals under Premier Norris have the largest following and can probably carry on the business of the government, but in order to remain in power they are dependent upon other groups in the house whose political creed is different from their own.

What has taken place in Ontario and in Manitoba is an indication of the feeling of the people all over Canada, and none of the old time parties are safe and there is being manifested a desire to break away from the old machine methods, and the people are forming themselves into groups independent in thought and action of all the political traditions of the past. This is not to be regretted as it indicates that the people are thinking for themselves, instead of allowing others to think for them. Consequently in coming elections we shall witness a new order of things, when a candidate will be compelled to appeal to the electors for the program or platform he represents rather than because he is the nominee of some political party.

Another beneficial result will be seen in the legislature itself. In the past all the business of the government, both in the Dominion and Provincial houses, has been in the hands of some half dozen or so men—members of the cabinet and all the so-called private members were supposed to do was to vote in support of any measure the government placed before the house—a kind of pull-the-string-and-the-figure-moves business. But now the private member is coming to his own, he is speaking out in meeting, and as the members are more divided into groups they will do more independent thinking and will take a larger part in the framing of our laws.

There is a feeling on the part of many that this division into groups will result in what has been termed "class legislation." That is, some one group in the country may get such power in the legislature as to serve only its own interests, and utterly ignore the claims of the other groups. This would be obviously unfair. Any government by a class as opposed to the whole is unfair, yet at the present time the monied interests, or, if you like, the capitalist class control the situation in the government of this country, and it may be that a "class" government composed of farmer and labor representatives could as well represent the monied interests as the monied interests at present represent the farmers and labor.

No Convictions For Shortweight Butter

Retailers Did Not Know Butter Was Under Weight "When Moulded or Cut."

Calgary retailers who were summoned for selling short-weight butter under the dairy industry act by Inspector C. Kidd won out in the police court because it could not be shown that they knew the butter prints were not of full weight, "at the time they were moulded or cut." It was evident by the weight of the prints that they could not possibly have been full weight when made, but the dealers contended that they had bought by bulk weight and according to the number of prints contained in the consignment they averaged a full pound, naturally they thought they were all up to the standard.

It now looks as though it would be up to the government officials to start their campaign of education among the dairy farmers and see that they conform to the requirements. As the law is administered at present it is practically impossible to get a conviction.

The dairy butter in most cases does not contain the name of the maker on the wrapper and a country merchant who gets in a number of shipments and forwards them to a jobber in the cities loses track of the identity of the original owners. Then if the jobber does not rework all the butter and wrap it properly it goes into the hands of the retailer and he is likely to be jerked up by some inspector for selling shortweight. There is also the opportunity for the retailer, if he should care to take the chance to deliberately buy short weight butter and sell it and then if summoned enter the plea that he did not know that the butter was not up to weight "at the time it was moulded or cut." If a retailer was crooked enough he could get away with it all right.

There is a provision in the act which could be made to govern the case. That is to have the name of the maker printed on the wrapper which at present must be put around the prints and which have to be printed with the words "Dairy Butter."

At present it is optional with the maker as to whether the name is put on the butter or not. If it were compulsory the makers of good butter would be able to get a better price for their product and it would also be a check on those who are getting the dairy farmers generally into disrepute by selling short weight prints.

So now it would seem that it would be more advantageous to the dairy butter industry if the government inspectors would put in their time going around the dairy community and seeing that the moulds are of a size that under ordinary conditions will turn out a one-pound print. It would not be necessary to impose fines unless there was a case where some individual was deliberately trying to get away with short weight after being warned, but there would be very few of these as in most cases where butter is under weight it is due to the makers being ignorant of the fact that their mould is not of the right size or they are allowing their product to carry too much moisture.

As the law stands at present it is never going to accomplish any good and between you and me there is a whole lot to do in improving the quality of the dairy butter in Alberta. Of course there are some handicaps but if the dairy butter makers get the co-operation of the government matters can be improved. —Market Examiner.

Growing Seed on Irrigation Land

There are undoubtedly great possibilities in the growing of seed on the irrigable lands of Southern Alberta. On several farms in different parts of the irrigated area small pieces of land have been reserved for growing seed during the last few seasons. The success of Don H. Bark, superintendent of the Irrigation Investigation Branch of the C.P.R. along these lines in previous years has, no doubt, induced many others to try seed growing, and in 1919 much seed was grown with considerable profit on irrigated land in Southern Alberta in the districts surrounding Brooks, Strathmore and Coaldale.

Up to now seed growing has perhaps received more attention in the Brooks district than in the other parts of the irrigated area. Alfalfa, clover, and grain have been chiefly grown. No doubt the greatest success last season was that of J. E. Strong, who farms five miles north of Brooks. From a two year old field containing eleven acres of Grim Alfalfa, Mr. Strong threshed 8,400 pounds of seed. The quality of this seed may be judged from the fact that at the British Columbia Seed Fair held at Kamloops in the latter part of January this year an exhibit of it was awarded the first prize. Mr. Strong's crop has been sold for eighty-five cents to a dollar a pound, so that the proceeds from this field of eleven acres was between seven and eight thousand dollars from seed alone.

Mr. Strong's was one of the largest fields of seed grown, and his success is interesting because it proves that the results others are obtaining on fields of one or two acres can be duplicated on larger areas. Up to now farmers have been growing seed mainly for their own requirements, seldom having more than an acre and often less. For two years in succession Mr. Park has grown alfalfa seed on an acre of land at the C.P.R. demonstration farm at Brooks. From this acre in 1918, 893 pounds of re-cleaned marketable seed was obtained. This seed was sold for fifty cents a pound. In 1919 the field produced 700 pounds of re-cleaned seed, which is being sold to farmers in the district at seventy-five cents a pound, although in the open market it would probably bring a dollar a pound. The value of the seed and the hay harvested on this acre of land in the two seasons is considerably more than one thousand dollars.

Growing clover seed is also proving very profitable. A three-quarter acre field at Tilley, east of Brooks, last year produced six bushels of red clover seed to the acre. More than sixty-five cents a pound is being obtained for this seed, which works out at a return of more than three hundred dollars to the acre. At the Idaho State Seed Show held at Pocatello, Idaho, last February, it was awarded first prize. The quality is thus evidenced, for this prize was won in competition with seed grown in one of the best seed growing areas in the United States.

A three acre field of alsike clover gave a yield of six bushels to the acre. Sixty-five cents a pound is the value of this seed and it brought a return of three hundred dollars to the acre. Yellow sweet clover on a three and a half acre field at Tilley had a yield of five bushels and fifty pounds to the acre. At thirty-five cents a pound, or twenty-one dollars a bushel, a return of more than one hundred dollars an acre was obtained from these three and a half acres. That similar results can also be obtained on large fields is shown by the harvest taken from nineteen and a half acres of white sweet clover planted on the C.P.R. Demonstration Farm at Tilley. This field yielded 18,500 pounds of clean seed, which was sold for an average price of thirty cents a pound. The total returns for the field were, therefore, more than $5,500, or $282 for each acre.

When it is considered that in Southern Alberta there will eventually be between two and three million acres of irrigable land on which similar results will be possible, it seems safe to predict that, before many more years have elapsed, a very important commercial seed producing area will have been established here.

"Seed Growing on Irrigated Land" will be the subject of one of the addresses at the forthcoming Convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association at Lethbridge, July 28, 29 and 30. Oon H. Bark and Professor G. H. Cutler, of the University of Alberta, have consented to give addresses on this topic, which is one of great importance to the farmers throughout Western Canada, especially those who have irrigable land.

Farmers and Dominion Government

In all parts of the Dominion outside of Quebec province farmer organizations are showing particular interest in the Dominion situation. Following Sir Robert Borden's announced determination to resign the Farmer's Sun, official organ of the Ontario United Farmers, issued a front page editorial call in double column to locals in various Ontario constituencies to perfect their political organizations and nominate candidates for a federal election. The same thing is happening in the Maritime provinces and in the west there is similar activity.

Without doubt the farmers of the country intend to strengthen their direct representation in the Dominion house. Without doubt, too, they will succeed in their endeavor, though it is by no means likely that they will emerge from the fight with a majority over other groups. It is a certainty, also, that organized labor will have some candidates in the next federal election and there may also be some Veteran party candidates to be reckoned with.

Assuming that some men from each of the political groups are elected the next parliament of Canada promises to be an interesting body and its sessions rather different to anything we have had in the past when two parties was the limit. There may be representatives of six groups in the next house and if more than two of them have any considerable representation it is possible some combination will be necessary in order to form a government. It has happened that way in Ontario and Manitoba elections recently.

Nor is it by any means certain that such a result would be something to be deplored. Given the right leader combination group government is not such a bad thing. Since the advent of Lloyd George as premier in British politics there has been a group combination in the home land he would be a foolish man who would insist that the sort of government Britain has had under Lloyd George administration has been less efficient or progressive than was given by either of the two old political parties—Calgary Herald.

Costs $175 an Acre to Irrigate Land in Wash. U.S.

SPOKANE—The Columbia basin irrigation project, using a gravity supply of water from the Pend Oreille river under present conditions, will cost when completed $171.40 per acre with water delivered at the farm unit, according to the report of the Columbia basin survey commission, submitted to Governor Louis F. Hart yesterday.

The crop results now being obtained on adequately watered areas in the state justify a development cost for the Columbia basin much higher per acre, says the report.

Reclaim 1,753,000 acres

After more than a year's investigation of available sources of water supply and of methods of distribution and after making a complete land classification of the Columbia basin area, the report submitted to the governor shows that 1,753,000 acres in Adams, Grant, Franklin and Walla Walla counties can be reclaimed.

"Depending upon the size of individual ownerships, from 20,000 to 40,000 farms will be developed," according to the report, which also shows "by using a gravity supply from the Pend Oreille, which is the most practical and economical source, there will be two or three times the amount of water necessary to meet any irrigation demand."

The report also contains studies of a water supply from Wenatchee lake and from the Columbia river, showing a slightly higher cost per acre of the former and the infeasibility of the latter.

The acres within the Columbia basin that could be watered from these sources, however, are considerably less than those proposed to be irrigated from the Pend Oreille.

Gist of Findings

In a resume of its investigations the commission shows:

There is an abundance of water that can be conveyed to the Columbia basin lands by gravity.

There is no serious engineering features.

The irrigable land is of excellent quality. Much of it has been tilld

U.F.A. Local Formed at Waterton School

The meeting arranged for Waterton Schoolhouse last Saturday to discuss the formation of a U.F.A. local was well patronized, and there was a large turnout of farmers and their wives from the surrounding territory. The meeting was addressed by Hugh Mackintosh, of Macleod, Mr. F. Sears, the U.F.A. director for the Macleod District, and by Mrs. Kiser, representing the U.F.W.A. After a lengthy discussion it was decided to form a local of the U.F.A., open to both men and women, instead of having two organizations—U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. The election of officers took place and the following were elected: President, G. H. Griffiths; Vice-President, Mrs. Wm. Perrin; Sec'y-Treasurer, Mrs. G. R. Cohoon; Executive Committee: J. Maloney, H. G. Long and Mrs. W. E. Young.

and will require small expense to prepare it for irrigation.

The topography of the Columbia basin lands lends itself to an economical distribution of water.

The productivity of the land has been amply proved by results obtained on small tracts within this area.

The splendid climate, abundance of sunshine, long growing season and the fertile lands assure abundant and dependable yields.

"The application of water to the Columbia basin lands will yield products which will add greatly to the wealth of the state and nation," says the report. "Lack of adequate rainfall upon the greater part of the area is the only factor which has prevented it becoming a thriving agricultural region. In soil and climate it is probably unequalled by a similar area in the country."

Adjoining the area which can be irrigated by a gravity water supply, according to the report, are 1,250,000 acres which are not suited for intensive cultivation, but which will largely be available for grazing.

An addition 91,000 acres can be irrigated by pumping less than 150 feet in height and 317,000 acres by a higher lift. Pumping areas, however, are not included in the present estimates of the commission.

Develop Power Also

During the irrigation season it will be possible to develop power for pumping or other use varying from 60,000 to 230,000 horsepower at drops in the distribution system.

"The project will be settled as rapidly as water is available for the several units," says the report, "now largely in private ownership. With local development well advanced transportation available throughout the region, agricultural conditions which will equal or excel areas now irrigated in the state, these lands will return to the settlers every year a substantial profit over all costs."

According to the commission, it will be able to control prices at which settlers can acquire farms and it expects to prevent an unregulated statement in advance of the distribution of water.

Germany Wants Time to Demobilize

SPA, Belgium, July 7.—The German plan for progressive demobilization to 100,000 men in 15 months was presented to the representatives of the allied governments here this afternoon, and was declared unsatisfactory to the allies.

The Associated Press is informed by a prominent member of the conference that it will examine seriously, however, an act upon the plan after the experts report tomorrow.

The impression in allied circles tonight is far more favorable than yesterday, the presentation of the German plan opening the way for discussion and removing the danger of a rupture.

Sharp Words by Delegates

Dr. Simons, the German foreign minister, gave it as his opinion that the crisis had not yet passed. The

Lethbridge Camp Fire Girls Visit Macleod

The Camp Fire Girls of Wesley Church, Lethbridge, are back in Macleod for their summer holidays and by all accounts are having a good time. Last year the girls were nearly roasted with the heat. This year their experiences are of another character as indicated by the tale of woe they have sent into our office, and which we herewith append for the benefit of their friends who will no doubt duly express their sympathies.

Sloughs! Mosquitoes! Rain!

After battling with freshly graded roads, the Wesley Camp Fire Girls faced a new problem in the form of sloughs which cut them off from their former camping ground, seven miles west of Macleod. However, this difficulty was soon overcome by the building of the Bridge of Tears and the Bridge of Sighs.

Having struggled with tent ropes and pegs, they were settling down to ghost stories and jokes when the air was rent with screams—"Ouch! Gee, but those mosquitoes can bite." "Oh, girls, look at the spiders—two whoppers." Then more screams. Hardly were the beds re-occupied when, upon investigation, several colonies of ants (ants) were found to have taken up their abode in the "feather ticks." However, these disturbances were soon forgotten in deep slumber.

Monday morning—5.30 a.m.—"This is the life—just listen to the rain!" "Uh hu, I'm listening, but I'd rather sleep."

7 a.m.—"Oh, kids I'm drowned—hey pull in my overalls out of the wet—what do you think I'm going to wear?" "Wowee-ee, this pillow is soaked, I got it right in the eye that time." "Haul out those bathing suits, we'll take our morning dip in the deepening trenches around this tent."

Thirty minutes later the sun peaked from behind a cloud and grinned at what he saw.

Despite all these trials and tribulations the Camp Fire Girls came out on top with smiling faces and declared they wouldn't have missed the experience for anything in the world.

only moment when there was any bitterness shown at this afternoon's session was when Premier Lloyd George said rather impatiently: "You only have to make a law to reduce your army and execute it."

To this Dr. Simons replied: "I wish to remind the honorable gentleman that there are parts of the British Empire in which there are laws concerning the keeping of arms by subjects, which the British Empire is unable to enforce."

Destruction of Cannon

The allied demand is for immediate destruction of 12,000 cannon, which the allied commissioners in Germany have under guard, together with 50,000 machine guns. Germany desires to destroy the guns at the rate of 1,000 a month. The allies hold that this is not sufficiently rapid, and express fear that the machine guns will fall into the hands of insurrectionists—Calgary Herald.

Celebrated Cast Chosen For Play

HELEN JEROME EDDY, GEORGE NICHOLS, BEN ALEXANDER, PAULINE CURLEY AND LLOYD HUGHES IN "THE TURN IN THE ROAD"

At The Empress Next Tuesday only

There is no star featured in "The Turn in the Road," an Exhibitors Mutual release, although each and every one of a half-dozen in the cast are stars in every sense of the word.

Helen Jerome Eddy is one of the best-liked and talented young actresses in film-plays. The popularity she attained while appearing in successes starring George Beban was well merited. The character of "June" in "The Turn in the Road" could not have been placed in more capable hands, while visually she is the type that conveys unerringly the lovable character of the "girl" in this charming heart-story.

Little Ben Alexander, who scored a big hit in "Hearts of the World," has in "Bob" one of the most important roles ever played by a child actor. Around this little fellow revolves the entire latter part of the story.

Pauline Curley, one of the real blonde beauties of the screen, who has many Metro successes to her credit plays the young wife.

Lloyd Hughes, who has recently come to the silent drama from the speaking stage, proves himself remarkably adapted to screen-drama in the difficult part of Paul Perry, the headstrong and impulsive young husband.

George Nichols, who has had a long and successful career both as actor and producer, does a fine piece of work as Hamilton Perry, the tyrannical money-made capitalist. Before coming to the screen Mr. Nichols appeared in stock in San Francisco and Chicago for fourteen years. He was assistant to Griffith at Biograph for three years, subsequently going to Thanhouser as director.

Winter Hall is another well-known actor who has in important role.

Of the 10,620 members of 118 unions in Alberta, only 182 or 1.71 per cent were unemployed during April, according to the Labor Gazette. There also was a smaller amount of unemployment throughout Canada during April than during March and April, 1919, the official figures show. Last April of the 182,436 members of 1,441 unions in the country, 5,161 or 2.83 per cent were unemployed, while during March the percentage was 3.44 and during April, 1919, 4.38.

The mushroom is one of the most remarkable specimens of the vegetable world. In a year when there are no crops and the seasons are adverse to farming, the mushroom fails to appear. Another weather prophet is the succulent and delicious lamb's quarters. When these are cooked right, in their own juice, it ranks higher than spinach, beet tops or any other green stuff. For the past five years mushrooms and the lamb's quarters have only grown spasmodically. Any year that they are plentiful the farmers can sleep sound, assured of a bountiful crop. The mushroom is of an ancient lineage, pure and uncrossed with other races. We read of the Children of Israel in their wanderings and in want of food being fed with manna from Heaven. They were commanded to go out while the dew was on the grass and gather what was sufficient for the day only. Anyone hoarding it for the next morning found it decayed, wormy or rotten. Exactly the description of our vegetable fungus, the mushroom. This has led to the certain belief that the manna sent from heaven was our esteemed mushroom, which when cooked in its own juice or prepared in various other ways is very satisfying and strengthening. Combining meat and vegetables the liquid from it when cooked made an ideal dish for children and old people. It is also a dish fit to be set before a king. Many so-called miracles in the old Bible can invariably be traced to natural causes, and the wise foresight of God utilizes Nature and its products to further the comfort of man and beast. The mushroom may have been created then and there and this is the origin of the mushroom.

Lord Fisher "Bull Dog" of Navy Dead

LONDON, July 10. — Admiral Fisher, first baron of Kilverstone, and former first lord of the admiralty, died this morning.

Lord Fisher underwent a serious operation yesterday and failed to rally.

Lord Fisher was born on the island of Ceylon, January 25, 1841, and was the son of Captain William Fisher, of a Highland regiment stationed in the east at that time. He entered the navy when but 13 years old, and was commissioned a lieutenant in 1860. From this time on his rise in the service was continuous. He was married in 1866 to Miss Francis Brogton, who died in 1918. He is survived by one son and three daughters.

Successful U.F.A. Rally Around Macleod

The U.F.A. rally held last week in the different school houses adjacent to Macleod was a decided success at each meeting there was a large and interesting crowd of farmers and their wives gathered to listen to the special speakers who had come to address them, and the executive of the Macleod Local, who promoted the rally are to be congratulated upon the success attending their efforts.

Meetings were held at Ardenville, Rathwell, Mud Lake, Orton and the Waterton Schools, and the special speakers were Mr. F. Sears, of Nanton; Mr. Flett, of the U.G.G.; and Mrs. Kiser, who represented the U.F.W.A. In his addresses Mr. Sears discussed the farmers' platform in relation to the present political situation. Mr. Flett's topic was "The Organized Farmer in Business," whilst Mrs. Kiser appealed to the women now that they have the vote to organize themselves, so that they may intelligently vote upon all matters that came before the electors. In each case the addresses were forceful and interesting and the speakers were followed with close attention, whilst at one point—the Waterton School—a new local was formed. Mr. Hugh Mackintosh, president and W. H. Shields, secretary, of the Macleod Local, were present at most of the meetings and worked hard to make them a success.

East Ignorant About Alberta Coal

CALGARY, July 10.—The statement of "a leading coal merchant" in Montreal, contained in a Canadian Press dispatch from that city that the mines in the west "already market all their own product" is just one of those instances, in the opinion of coal operators and others here, of the deliberate campaign on the part of some people in the east to keep the western product out of the eastern market. The actual facts are that many domestic coal mines in Alberta, owing to lack of orders, are at the present time only working to about 25 per cent of their capacity. This particularly applies to Drumheller, the largest domestic coal producing district of the province.

When the dispatch mentioned was shown to W. F. McNeill, the secretary of the Western Coal Operators' Association, this official at once referred to Drumheller as a case in point where lack of orders was the cause of the present limited output. The Montreal merchant, he said, was utterly unacquainted with the actual position of affairs in the west.

In Mr. McNeill's opinion the thing for eastern people to do was to make arrangements for all the coal they could get from the United States to go to Ontario and Quebec, allowing the western coal to take care of markets from the Great Lakes west. That, he said, was a feasible proposition. He strongly asserted that it was the height of folly for people in Manitoba to burn eastern coal when the people of Ontario were suffering from want of the product and mines in Alberta were shut down owing to their being no orders.

F. E. Harrison, assistant to W. F. Armstrong, the director of coal operations, stated that the Montreal man was talking nonsense. If the price of coal, including the freight, would be satisfactory to the eastern consumer, Alberta could supply them with all their requirements. He confirmed the fact that at the present time the Drumheller fields alone were only working to about 25 per cent of their capacity.

The first experiment in long-distance radio telephoning was made in 1914.

every rank of the people. He was known as the "father of the dreadnought," because he was the first to realize the vast power of this type of warship. During his term as first sea lord of the admiralty, from 1904 to 1910, he virtually revolutionized the navy. He entirely changed the old-established and outworn strategic disposition of the fleet, and threw no less than 150 warships, from immense ironclads to light cruisers, into the scrapheap as being obsolete and out of date. Being a reformer by nature, Lord Fisher's attack on the British naval administration in September, 1910, in which he denounced the expenditures being made as "ruinous," might have been expected, but it caused a great sensation throughout the British empire. Later, Lord Fisher declared that in the submarine he saw the future sea fighter and that the development of aviation had made invasion of Great Britain impracticable.

Lord Fisher had been seriously ill since early in May, when he underwent an operation.

"Kitchener of the Navy?"

Sir John Arbuthnot Fisher (Baron Kilverstone), was born in 1841, and is an English admiral of whom Lord Roseberry said: "He is the Kitchener of the navy." He served in the Chinese and Crimean wars, and was in command of the Inflexible in 1882 at the bombardment of Alexandria. He then became director of naval ordnance and torpedoes in 1886, was admiral superintendent of the Portsmouth dockyard in 1891, and was afterwards controller of the navy. In 1889 he was commander-in-chief of the North American and West Indies station, and of the Mediterranean from 1889 to 1902, becoming first naval lord of the admiralty in 1904. In 1903 he was a member of the Esther war office committee. He was appointed first sea lord in 1904, and admiral of the fleet in 1905. He retired in January, 1910, and was created Baron Kilverstone in 1909.

Distinguished Administrator

Admiral Fisher has been a distinguished naval administrator, and closely identified with the cause of reform. He possessed both theoretical and practical experience, while his administrative skill was unequalled. He was a master of gunnery, and has at one time or another held almost every important position in the navy, afloat and ashore. Under his control of the navy the dreadnought policy was introduced, and also the plan of scrapping old ships instead of keeping them on the navy list.

It was Admiral Fisher that blew up and out all the well-bred well-connected hopeless incompetents that were hanging round the admiralty offices. He also scrapped 120 vessels that England had been carrying as assets. Fisher said they could neither attack or defend.

A Born Fighter

It was at this time that he issued his statement of his proposed policy in time of war—a policy which is strangely like the announced plan of his national enemy today. "The essence of war is violence," said he. "Moderation in war is imbecility. When you have to wring a chicken's neck, you wring it. You don't stop half way and tell the chicken you hope you are not inconveniencing him. I don't believe in fighting with intervals and refreshments."

He Reformed Navy

Fisher enforced the policy by which the strength of the British navy was brought from the Mediterranean. Since then 86 per cent of Britain's sea strength has been massed in the North Sea, just where it was needed when the test came. The ships of the first line were built in accordance with his conception of naval needs. He doesn't like submarines and torpedoes—but for all his yardarm promises he developed submarines in his navy. He was the first of the great men to favor oil fuel. He chopped many of the aristocratic strings which had hampered his predecessors. He instituted a new plan of naval education, by which the budding officers were trained together for four years. Then, and only then, were they turned into special lines. He planned the nucleus crews by which the naval reserve became valuable. He found the British navy impressive, but more or less inefficient, and he made it seaworthy to the last man and rivet. Then he tested it. The Russians had by mistake fired upon certain British fishermen off the Dogger banks.

"Prepare for war," was the order Fisher flashed to every British ship. There was a world of panic for a little while. From Constantinople to China. English sailors were drummed to quarters and the lashings thrown off the big guns. The stock markets of the world acted like hens in a dust bin. Speculators were ruined by the thousand. Margin players committed suicide. There was a frightful outcry, which was redoubled when it was discovered that the alarm had been a needless one. Fisher had known all the time that it had been only a mistake by the Russians. He knew that war was not even faintly possible. But it had given him the chance he wanted, to find out whether his navy was ready.

A Diplomat Also

The classic story told of Lord John Fisher of Kilverstone—the title dates from 1909—must be retold. He doesn't fear anyone, or reverence anyone overmuch. He especially does not believe in naval alliances or in executing maneuvers with the fleet of a friendly power, or in any other naval thing except keeping continually on guard. So that he wasn't especially pleased when the late Queen Victoria asked him to "be very nice" to Admiral Gervais who was at the moment visiting Portsmouth. He looked his sovereign right in the eye: "Madame," said he, "if your majesty wishes, I'll kiss him."—Calgary Herald.

MOTHER AND SON CURED OF GOUTRE

Some 27 years ago I was afflicted with a large Goutre, and had spent hundreds of dollars on it without relief when I saw your advertisement and after using two small jars of Dr. Hayssen's Famous Goutre Ointment I was completely cured. My son was also afflicted; it cured him. Years ago I gave Dr. Hayssen permission to use my name to help in the good work and it still holds good.

as far as seed is concerned.

The large volume of business done in the Calgary elevator this year is accounted for owing to the fact that the Canadian Wheat Board diverted a great quantity of wheat last fall and spring to Calgary instead of routing it to the head of the Lakes. The rush of business has been so great as far as the seed branch is concerned that the machinery was kept running continuously day and night from October to the end of April.—Calgary Herald.

U.S. to Re-open Wheat Market

CHICAGO, July 7.—Plans to re-open trading in wheat futures July 15 were virtually completed yesterday at a meeting of a committee of 16, representing the eight leading grain exchanges in the country. An advisory committee of 31, composed of representatives of all wheat interests, was expected to approve the recommendation of the exchange committee at a meeting here today.

Few changes were made in the plans decided upon several weeks ago by the committee. They provide for trading in December delivery at the start. Should it be deemed advisable to trade in a delivery earlier than December, the proposal will be considered by the exchange committee.

Representatives at the meeting said grain exchanges were preparing for a reopening of the market after three years' suspension. Chicago exchange rules provide for delivery of many grades and other exchanges are planning to change their rules providing for the delivery of number three grades of wheat on contract at a penalty of five cents. Minneapolis, Duluth and Kansas City have posted the proposed changes for adoption. Minneapolis will make its contract grade No. 1 northern spring wheat, with No. 2 northern delivered at 2 cents less, and No. 3 at 7 cents under the No. 1, or 5 cents below the No. 2. Winter wheat is to be made deliverable on contracts under spring, with the penalty for the other grades on the same basis.—Calgary Herald.

More Damage Caused by Storm

In our report of the hail storm which passed over Macleod on Sunday evening, July 4th and of the rain storm which succeeded it on the following days, it is obvious that we could not gather all the information, nor arrive at a correct estimate of the damage before we went to press.

Subsequent reports that have come to us seem to indicate that the damage in the town was more serious than it first appeared. Amongst those who suffered the most, besides those reported last week may be mentioned A. T. Leather, who owns a large amount of business and residential property in the town. Mr. Leather estimates his damage as at least $1500; and Mr. F. C. Benson, who lives on the corner of 4th Ave. and 22nd St., tells us that his living rooms were flooded with mud and water to a depth of 3½ feet, and all of his household goods were soaked, including the boots and shoes of the family, a 100 pound sack of sugar, a sack of flour and other groceries which constituted the month's supply which he had just laid in. The floor cloth and carpets were spoiled and for a while the furniture was floating around the room, owing to the amount of water which came in from all directions. Mr. Benson estimates that apart from the great inconvenience the damage amounted to well over $350.

It is to be noted, however, that outside of the town there was practically no damage, in fact the farmers are delighted with the abundance of rain.

G.W.V.A. Dances

The G.W.V.A. dances held every Saturday night in their hall continue to be the rendezvous of the younger set. Last Saturday was no exception and a particularly enjoyable dance was given.

A feature of these dances is the excellent music, which compares very favorably with any furnished by orchestras of larger places.

A pleasant interlude is provided by the serving of dainty refreshments at a nominal price by a host of charming maidens, who flit gracefully from table to table, ministering to the needs of the languishing disciples of Terpsichore.

These dances commence at 9.30 and close at 11.45.

Base Ball Notes

The Macleod boys went up to Granum last Wednesday, but they found things a little too swift for them and they got badly beaten by a score of 11 to 1.

On Tuesday the Granum team paid a visit to Macleod and at the end of an exciting game proved once more the victors with a score of 11 to 7.

There is another game scheduled for Friday night at 6.30, when the local boys will meet a team from Coalhurst.

Great Britain and U. S. Candidates

LONDON, July 7. — Newspapers of London, in commenting on the Chicago and San Francisco conventions, this morning, devote more attention to future relations between the United States and Great Britain, than upon the bearings the conventions will have on the domestic affairs of America.

"There is nothing in the declared policy of either Mr. Cox or Mr. Harding to disturb the most cordial relations between the two countries," says the Morning Post, which also expresses pleasure that "political dealings with the Irish question in the United States have not affected our natural friendship and there is now good hope they will not be allowed to do so."

Several journals warn the people here not to take a too serious view of utterances inevitable during the campaign by "certain groups in the United States, who make twisting the lion's tail a favorite amusement."

The Times, recognizing affairs of Europe, especially of Great Britain, will be much discussed during the campaign, says: "It would be wise to frankly ask ourselves whether it is strange if the progress of European affairs since the armistice should have induced in United States minds a feeling of bewilderment bordering on alarm."

Most newspapers touch very lightly or ignore the Irish plank adopted at San Francisco, but the Morning Post remarks: "American politicians do not scruple to serve their own ends by resorting to experiments which they know are offensive to the British nation. The most reckless British politicians would never consider the possibility of gaining votes by inserting in their election addresses references to matters of purely American concern. We believe the Irish resolution does not cut very much ice as it stands."

Referring to the Irish plank the Telegraph also professes "not to be greatly perturbed by this diluted patronage, nor by the much more fervid sympathy for Irish independence which some American politicians thought proper to exhibit."

The newspaper endorses the confidence expressed by John W. Davis, United States ambassador in a recent speech, that "the current which carries the destinies of the two peoples on a common course will continue to set steadily outward."—Calgary Herald.

FRANCE RECOVERING FROM THE EFFECTS OF WAR

"In two years' time France will be in just as good an economic position as before the war," said Louis Coste, brother of Eugene Coste of this city, on his arrival in the city last evening from Marseilles, where he has lived since 1914. "The people of France have commenced to work, and the government has handled the labor situation most efficiently, and I do not anticipate that there will be any organized strikes for a long time to come."

Shortly before his return to Canada, Mr. Coste visited the devastated regions of France, which he states are rapidly being restored, the mines and other industries being in operation and wells being sunk in large numbers. "In addition to the supply obtainable from the French mines, some will shortly be available from Germany," said Mr. Coste, "in accordance with the terms of the peace treaty. This week's conference at Spa will show exactly how much may be expected from Germany, and also with what degree of thoroughness the peace treaty will be enforced."—Morning Albertan.

Tuesday Night's Baseball Game

(By Spectator)

Baseball is becoming very popular in Macleod due to the fact that we have good sports. This is evident by the youthful appearance of the lads who faced the husky bunch from G. and on Tuesday evening.

"Good eye! Ump!" was the shout from all quarters. This punctuated with all kinds of other chaff and guff was taken with real good nature. By the way, if a hailstorm struck Clark's moustache what would happen?

Granum has a splendid bunch, full of pep. Every man on tip-toe, playing the game in fine team play—not trying to demonstrate some new stunt, but every member working for the good of the team, and we are glad to see two towns—neighbors as Granum and Macleod are—entering into such a competition, as we believe it does much to foster the community spirit.

All told it was a good game, and the rooters from the bleachers were most enthusiastic, and we hope that when our boys meet Coalhurst on Friday they will have a different story to tell.

Spud Murphy is still to the fore and there with the goods—an old war horse knowing the tricks of the game. Watson, the pitcher, Charlton and the rest of the boys all played an interesting game.

We might utter a word of warning and suggest that no boys be allowed inside the back-stop or a serious accident may occur.

Was the "Spectator's" eyesight at fault or playing tricks—in one inning it was 3 men down, when up comes the fourth, wielding his bat "Marching through Georgia." However, no one seemed to make a kick, and he went on playing. We suppose there are tricks in all trades, but 4-baseball?

Mrs. Nellie McClung Visits Macleod

The splendid and stirring address given by Mrs. Nellie McClung, in the Methodist Church last Wednesday evening was certainly deserving of a much larger audience. The subject of her lecture was "Building a New World," and it was a stirring appeal to all that is greatest and best in our national life. But there were few of the town people there, most of the audience were from the surrounding country.

Complaint is often made that the folks in the smaller towns do not have the chances that the city folks do and yet when an effort is made to get speakers and entertainers that are really worth while, there is so little response on the part of these complainers, as to discourage those who undertake the responsibility of bringing such talent to town from making any further effort.
